

Another True Sight

To live I need just faint breath of light
Shows me the path I tread though I'll be stuck in this place
To live I need just a hazy memory
Keeps me from the fear
I'm not afraid of going astray

In this clock world I can't follow the turn
Feeling avoided, I'm so alone
Somehow I will find a narrow crack
And I'll be flying searching for another true sight

To give I need just one word of reply
Give me a place to be, where I can make my dreams again
To give I need just one tear from your heart
Penetrates in your eyes and you'll get first sight of my sorrow

Approaching you made the air obscure fog
It stifled me, I could no longer hear
Sometime you're the man who so sweetly presses me down
And I'll be flying waiting for another true voice

Suddenly there's a calm view comes from the sound
I'm calling on strangers for the final save
I open my eyes oblivious to every stream
And I'll be flying searching for another true sight

To love I need just innocence that I possess
Leaves me undying faith to reach you in this illusion
To love I need just existing reflection of me
When you finish this game, will you still seek me?