

Another True Sight

To live I need just a faint breath of life
Shows me the path I tread though I've been stuck in this place
To live I need just a hazy memory
Keeps me from fear
I'm not afraid of going astray

In this mad lifeless world, I can't keep the turn
Feeling avoided, I'm so alone
Somehow I will find a narrow crack
And I'll be flying searching for another true sight

To give I need just one word of reply
Gives me a place to be, where I can make my dreams again
To give I need just one tear from your heart
Penetrates your eyes and you get a first sight of my sorrow

Approaching you made the air obscure
So it stifled me, I could no longer breathe
Sometimes you're the man who so sweetly holds me down
Yet I'll be flying waiting for another true voice

Suddenly from the far off sounds, comes calm
I'm calling out to be redeem
I open my eyes oblivious to all streams
And I'll be flying searching for another true sight

To love I need only the innocence that I possess
Leaves me undying faith to reach you in this illusion
To love I just need to fathom my presence
When you finish this game, will you still be seeking me?